

PINT OF SCIENCE

From Cells to Creatures: Adventures in Biology

Join us for an evening of science that brings research out of the lab and into the pub. During this session, scientists will take you on a journey from the human body down to the cellular level and into the world of animal models used in biomedical research. You will hear about how researchers study human biology, explore the fascinating dynamics inside our cells, and use mice to better understand health and disease. Expect engaging short talks, accessible explanations, and the chance to ask questions and discuss science in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere.
